

Jürgen Hofmann

Dr.-Ing.

Mr Hofmann studied food technology in Weihenstephan and was an assistant professor at the Lehrstuhl für Maschinen- und Apparatekunde of the Technischen Universität München in Weihenstephan until November 2006. Nowadays he works as a self-employed Hygienic Design expert, among other things in co-operation with the University. He has a lectureship for „Hygienic Design“ at the ETH Zurich, the University of Applied Science Weihenstephan and at the University of Karlsruhe.

He is appointed to the accredited test laboratory at the TU München Weihenstephan as a consultant for the examination and EHEDG certification of equipment regarding easy cleanability.

The Hygienic Design Weihenstephan Academy offers several kinds of training, workshops and seminars for the industry in general or special in-house training. All topics around hygienic design will be lectured.

He is a member of the SubCom Products Portfolio of EHEDG and responsible for the hygienic design principles. He also chairs the Regional Section of Germany.

He is able to do lectures in German and English about all topics EHEDG has published.
